

Young Soo Kwon

President & Chief Executive Officer

Young Soo Kwon is President & Chief Executive Officer at LG.Philips LCD.

Mr. Kwon served as President and CFO at LG Electronics prior to joining LG.Philips LCD in January, 2007. Mr. Kwon has proven himself a credible and visionary leader through his experience with LG Electronics, one of the world's leading technology companies. He is known for his outstanding value creation skills, especially in the areas of investment strategy and management innovation.

Mr. Kwon's involvement with LG.Philips LCD goes back to the company's inception. From 1998 to 1999, Mr. Kwon was involved in forming LG.Philips LCD with his counterparts at Philips through his managerial role at LG Electronics, and from 1999 through 2003, he served as a non-standing statutory auditor of LG.Philips LCD. Through this experience, and as a manager at one of the world's largest TV set manufacturers, LG Electronics, Mr. Kwon has gained an in-depth knowledge and understanding of the LCD industry and LG.Philips LCD.

Mr. Kwon has held positions as a financial officer at LG Electronics' overseas subsidiary in New Jersey, and headed the globalization team at LG Electronics headquarters in Korea. From these assignments, he has top-notch experience in and knowledge of global standard management practices, and understands how to maximize shareholder value.

After receiving his bachelor of arts degree in business administration from Seoul National University, Mr. Kwon attended the Korea Advanced Institute of Science and Technology (KAIST) where he received a master of arts degree in industrial engineering. He began his career at LG Electronics in 1979 and has spent nearly 30 years with the company.

Mr. Kwon is married and has two grown children. He resides in Seoul with his family.