Exhibitor Introduction	Exhibitor Introduction As the name implies, Technology Research Institute for Culture & Heritage is a company that fuses culture, heritage and technology. We create digital twins of high-preservation works of art, precisely recording and documenting them to utilize these data archive resources for various derivative products. We are a company that is active in various fields, ranging from developing digital realistic exhibition contents such as augmented reality, virtual reality, media art to researching and restoring real artifacts using digital technologies.
