Exhibitor Introduction	The Advanced Industry Talent Development Bootcamp at Soonchunhyang University was established through industry-academia-government collaboration to cultivate practical and interdisciplinary talent in the fields of display materials, components, processes, and equipment—based on real-world demands of the display industry. Our university offers field-oriented learning experiences through educational programs tailored to the practical needs of the display industry. By fostering close cooperation among the university, corporations, and the Industry-Academic Cooperation Foundation, we ensure that students develop both specialized knowledge and hands-on skills essential for the industry.
